The crops were suffering badly, and the prospect for a corn crop a week ago was discouraging, but now everything is green and vigorous, and the prospect is cheering. Business in this place is, in general, doll. A few of our citizens have concluded to move to our citizens have concluded to move to Kamas. Dr. W. D. Somers has just re-turned from a visit to that State, and says the people up there are clamorous for a milroad to Memphis, and I suppose Memphis would do well to be equally as eager for it. Very few improvements are being made now in the way of buildings, but it is thought that a large number of new houses will be built this fall. The two fine schools at this place are drawing people here for the purpose of schooling their children, and we ex-pect before long to have twenty-five bundred inhabitants. The friends of General Marcus J. Wright are pleased to see the complimentary notices given him by the press of the State, and should he receive the nomination for governor, will be heartly supported.
